

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An automatic transaction apparatus develops applications on a Web basis. The automatic transaction apparatus is provided with a local AP program resident therein which can implement transactions identical to those executed by an AP program downloaded from a Web server. Upon detection of a failure caused by the Web, the monitor program transitions the processing to the local AP program, thereby rapidly taking appropriate actions in the event of a failure caused by the Web.